feet 6 inches; depth 11 feet; and to have a displacement above its own weight, when completed, ready for use, of about 600 tons.

The general plans and specifications for the whole of this dock have been adopted, and may be seen and examined at the Navy Department. These plans and specifications are, however, adopted and assumed by the Government only as the general plans and specifications controlling the general character and dimensions of the dock, not as guaranteeing its strength, capacity and successful operation. But the contractor must assume and approve them to that extent, and will be himself held responsible that they are suitable and sufficient for the purpose desired, and also for the strength, capacity and successful operation of the dock, when built, for two years after it has been tested and found to be ready for use. No increase of size and general dimensions will be permitted without the express sanction of the Department.

The contractor will also furnish, for one section, called the engine section, two upright beam engines and boilers, with all the necessary pumps, water tanks, shafting, gearing, machinery and attachments of sufficient strength and power to raise the dock of six sections, with a vessel of 2,300 tons weight upon it, in one hour.

The engines and boilers will be protected by a suitable house, to be built of charcoal iron.

The plans of the engines and boilers with specifications in detail, must be approved by an engineer of the United States navy, to be appointed by the Department for that duty.

The materials used in building said dock must be, in all its parts, of the best quality of beam, angle and plate charcoal iron, and must be abpected of the superintendent appointed by the Department for that duty.

toughness of iron used for building iron vessels of war.

The whole structure will be built under the inspection of the superintendent appointed by the Department, who will have authority to reject any material or portion of the work not considered by him to be of preper quality and workmanship.

The contractor will be required to give security in the amount of $800,000, with not less than two sureties, who will furnish the usual certificates that they possess property free from incumbrance equal to twice the amount for which they are held as sureties, that he will do the work and construct the docks according to his contractin all respects, and that the same will be sufficient in strength and capacity, and will accomplish the purposafor which it is designed, as set out in this advertisement and in saic contract, and that it will persist successfully for two years after it has been accepted for use will be completed and the two sections ready for use within five months from the date of signing the contract.

Payments will be made in ten equal parts, as the work progresses, upon bills daily certified to by the superintendent on the part of the Government the Government reserving twenty per cent.

(20) of the amount of each bill as additional security until the final completion and scoophance of the work.

All "straw bids" will be stonce rejected, and ourity until the final completion and acceptance of the work.

All "straw bids" will be at once rejected, and the Department reserves the right to reject any bid from persons considered not completed to a the work, and all bids not believed to be for the interests of the Government; and, for the purpose of securing proper information on these points, a board of officers, consisting of one line officer, one significant to examine the bids, and investigate and one constructor, will be appointed by the Department to examine the bids, and investigate and report upon the experience and ability of the persons bidding, and the facilities at their command for properly executing the work required; and the Department will not award the centract to any one of whom such report is not, in all respects, satisfactory.

Commercial.

The ready market for live stock in the majority of our American cities and the insufficiency of the supply in England ought to stimulate Jome enterprise in that line. There are various parts of the country where the business can be and is carried on successfully patent to every mind and there is room for the employment of raising live stock. Prices are very high in England to-day and with stiffness and scarcity of the breadstuffs market the probabilities are that the coming winter will be a hard one for the pearantry.

There have been several epochs of scarcity on the remote past, which have driven those of limited means to the use of bread and vegetables during its prevalence; but it is now to be hoped that pasturage and provender lands will be increased so that eattle can be raised extensively, and of course at a profit, and permanent and steady relief given to the foreign markets.

The public voice of England demands through the medium of meetings are the press, that the restrictions to the importation of cattle be removed, and an association is formed to secure a supply of live cattle fror the United Saates for the relief of the Englis market. There are indications that the past in live, dressed, and salted meats will be ded.

The American master are firm, for these. One is solvened one-half to-day.
